Tabitha St. Germain is an actor and singer in My Little Pony Friendship is Magic. Her most prominent roles in the series are as the speaking voices of Rarity and Princess Luna. St. Germain first became involved in the show through his previous experience in G3 My Little Pony animated specials, having voted Minty, Wysteria and Thistle Whistle. [1] As part of the audition, St. Germain was told not to do anything [she had] done before, so she chose not to audition for Pinkie Pie, similar to minty, or Fluttershy, similar to Wysteria. [2] Among her other actors, St. Germain is known for sometimes bringing cakes and other sweets to recording sessions. [4] In 2012, she was nominated for an UBCP/ACTRA award for Best Voice with Trevor Devall and Andrea Libman, which Libman won. [5] In My Little Pony: Pony Life, St. Germain took on the role of Spike, replacing Cathy Weseluck after Friendship is Magic. In previous generations of My Little Pony, St. Germain gave voices for Minty, Wysteria, Thistle Whistle and Scootaloo in several direct-to-video animated specials. Outside my Little Pony, St. Germain has given voices to characters in a number of animated series, including Augie Shumway and Rhonda in ALF: The Animated Series, Spryte in The Legend of Zelda, Dende in Dragon Ball Z, Nazz in the series premiere episode of Ed, Edd n Eddy, Shana in the first season of Shakugan no Shana, Naomi Misora in Death Note, the title character in Pucca, Cheer Bear in Care Bears: Adventures in Care-a-Lot, Martha in Martha Speaks, Phoebe in Kid vs. Kat, Heloise in Jimmy Two-Shoes, Maria Hill in Iron Man: Armored Adventures, Pepper Clark in Littlest Pet Shop, Hilda Spellman in Sabrina: Secrets of a Teenage Witch, and various biroles in Beetlejuice, Sonic Underground, Astro Boy and InuYasha. Among St. live-action credits are guest roles on The New Addams Family, Stargate SG-1, The Outer Limits and Supernatural. Faved of 11 BTVA members who favorite this [X] made this amazing image of Martha from Martha Speaks: like, WOW! It's so nice to receive mail. And when it's not so gorgeous, you hold on to it forever! Super cute! This funny drawing was handed to me by a geoul in the audience on a panel at Everfree Northwest, a My Little Pony Con. It had just been mentioned that I often stunt burp for other actors who need to burp, but who have run out of gas. Which I rarely do. This is my character Rarity, imitating me. (which she never would) This ravingly gorgeous dickie was sent to me by ravingly gorgeous Joshua Heck. Whhhy is that so endearing??? I signed for them, but they didn't sign for me! A bunch of enthusiasts; Joseph and Dylan Smith and another boy bought me these a copy of the fanfic Fallout Equestria- by Khat Blemmeringly popular among bronies I've had to fight my nieghbor boy to repo the 5 volumes. FIVE VOLUMES. Can you say prolific!!!! In front of them one of several gorgeous and useful readings are magic bookmarks by Kat Whitney Who rocks Divergent Art. Handed over to me at everfree NW Con, here's a wonderful portrait of Granny Smith from MLP of Jericho's gorgeous plushie that I hold on to my mantle. This was given to me by a girl at Everfree NW Con. e two of my pony characters as people or fairies. It's hard to read the signature, but I think it says Hannah Ambruso- anyway. I love it. This also came from Everfree NW and again the signature is quite difficult to read, but I think it says: Chain Chong 7. These are three of my MLP characters- I love the one in the treasure chest! If you gave me a picture and are okay with me setting it up, please let me know. I have lots that I'm not sure were self-deputed gifts or other people's work. Others are still professional artists, and I don't want to offend. (Couch Crusader, this means you. I love you, BTW) I greatly appreciate all your amazing works of art. So proud to know you all. Which brings me to a phrase I want to pass to you all: From D.C. Bronies -- Mark the moon and the three diamonds for Luna and Rarity. What a thing of splatty beauty. carved this image of Rarity on wood. Insane skills. Insane skills. has everyone's name. I feel terrible that I came home with all this prey and not properly thank everyone. Needless to say, I am very grateful and amazed at the incredible creativity. Rarity figure (left) of the wonderful Otaku Squirrel . was thrown in a kind of acrylic that the mane and tail are solid in contrast to the toys. In front of Rarity with Opal. is a lapel pin- I think think resin based. is by Davin White And on the back a button by Justus Stebner, , (according to Mr. Squirrel.) With a lovely unsigned drawing from an Everfree participant Again, unsigned, this delightful painting on canvases was given to me at Everfree. If you're the artist, let me know so I can give you credit! Scarf! Such a beautiful gift. A girl, again, I don't have her name, but I think she was from Winnipeg, went on a stack of comfortable scarves all emblazoned with our characters' cutie badges. This is my Luna scarf. My favorite. Thank you lovely unknown girl! A girl at Anme Vegas gave me this lovely panting. If she sees this write and tell me your name! It was wedged into my Everfree program from last year. Makes me laugh. This is a rendering of me (as my characters enter Ikea and put all the egg timers to 5 minutes (which I had put in my bio) Awesome! J. Whitimer writes: ... I have a stupid question to ask you. You see, my friends and I are doing this research for a school project, and I was just wondering if you have tickling feet? :)Good of you to ask Mr. WhitimerSome of my feet fly is divinely protected. They have been assigned their own ninja angels. I'm talking about the heel and the ball. You can distribute ostrich feathers, a liners and solar flares and not get a joke of response. There have been commando parasites sent from Zeta Reticuli to infiltrate my feet and they have been sending packing around, with their vestigial tails up their conundrums. That said, to this day, the bottom of my toes can't resist a good pun, iriscence or squishy red mud. Glad to hear your schools finally ask for useful information. We're happy. What school do you go to? I need a child and send it there. --ATBteep(ot) Daddy adad wonders: ... Tabitha... what about Canada and fart jokes? Even Ashleigh Ball in an MLP interview mentioned you just crack speed jokes all the time, is the whole cast of MLP all about fart jokes? Is it insane? That's a good question, Dad. I guess we're all about sound. And involuntary sounds have a special place in the toon lexicon. Think of everyone falling down, getting hit, freaking out sounds that are the staple of some animated thingy. Try this: Record as many people as you can find everything in a row making raspberry sounds. Then play it back a couple of times. Something? If not, hate to break it to you, but you may be dead. (And even the dead sound, I understand.) I read that in Malawi pooting was actually forbidden card. --There was an outcry, as you can imagine, anatomies are what they are - things we all have. Billions of us. All embodied, all animals, no matter how high our minds. However, it is Malawi. At least one refuge for those who feel that off-gassing is a matter for... Is... tighten up on. With gusty affection. Teep. Ot! Matthew Wilson writes: I hope this letter finds you as in good spirits as you constantly grateful audience. Thank you much for the wonderful signs and memories for future generations to enjoy. Jimmy twoshoes is a great cure to see on a gray day. Keep lighting up our ... Monitors... Wow, Matthew. Way to make a girl feel good. You light up my... Okay, I'm not going to say life... Because then we all start singing that song, and there will be soap bubbles and girls on roller skates. You light up my... Heart. Yes. The funny lump. Just went absolutely glowing. Our man in Texas, James Philips, writes: As you surely know, there is a choice coming up in the United States ... and I'm not very fond of most of the candidates. So I'm thinking about writing in Rarity. Hear me out! Rarity has the element of generosity, but besides, she knows when it is appropriate to actually be generous. She doesn't like wasting things. She wouldn't use spending tax paying money like a crazy pony! We could take care of the less fortunate people who live in our country, while cutting out all that waste. It's just win-win! Rarity also wants for greatness in all big and small. She would not allow the country to settle for the best we can do at all times. She would strive for what pride and dignity require! It is also useful that she has the unique ability to find gems. It would be a great help to raise funds at all times. She would also be able to feel whether other sneaky politicians were creeping some of these gems into offshore bank accounts, I think! Last but certainly not least, she is a wonderful speaker! (:D) She could inspire each other to be the best they could be. To never let anything bring them down... to know that our government has always got our back! Applejack can be her vice president, since she has the stay-at-home popular charm that many people love. That would be amazing! ... If she wasn't just from a foreign country... not of age ... And maybe not being a human being can be an obstacle, too... Hrrrrm... I still believe in her! Dear James! mentioned your proposal on Everfree Northwest. As you know, when I consulted my inner Rarity her platform read like this: As your president I swear to put an end to the disgusting practice of putting stickers on fruit! Said James: Rarity / Applejack 2012 - A fruitful choice!HA! BIG CAKE! MYAMS! August 11. Scott Fullmer wrote:... I want to show you something because it's your birthday. I made a cake with Princess Luna's Cutie because I absolutely love your voice role as Princess Luna from My Little Pony:... I also like your other voices in My Little Pony characters as well as including D___, Granny Smith, etc. You have an amazing voice talent. I hope you enjoy your birthday and this cake. Once again, Happy Birthday! ^_^Your favorite brony fan of Princess Luna,Thank you considerate and lovely human. I love the cake. Can I eat it even if it's not my birthday? It was my buddy's birthday last night. I went out with her and got my hair. and had brunch so this is quite funny because I was actually actually a birthday, just not mine. BUT I WANT CAKE! Yum! ... my eyeballs already ate it there's nothing to do with it. Love Tpot PS although it's not technically my b-day, I'm open to celebrating all year round. I am considering the year my birthday SEASON to maximize cake and treats. As I told a boy, I regularly remind my circle how many shopping days left for my birthday. That way people think they have to like me because it's always on their minds to buy me pressies! Bwah-HAHAHA!!! (it was a nightmare Moon laugh.) Wikipedia, IMDB. - A little speckled. Be fresh boo. From dear ole Ricky Franklin: Hello and greetings! I'm a fan of your work with... My little pony friendship is magic and... Martha talks. You lend your voice to an interesting variety of characters and give them such defined personalities. I just wondered since you seem to have a very quirky personality yourself, have you ever inject a little of it into the characters you play? ... Hm. What an interesting question. Do I inject my own personality into the characters I play? Well, probably, since After all I am me, and it is very difficult to get away from myself even though there have been occasions when I have tried. On the other hand, the real fact is that we are all one great to experience life. So in a way, I'm all other, too. So Ricky, it's quite possible that when I'm shopping, I'm actually you. Who in the world said I was weird??? Everything seems perfectly normal from the inside here! Antony C writes: To the owner of the most excellent voice and sweet disposition, many thanks for all the peaks of entertainment over the years. You light up the place amazingly. I have a video tribute made by your fun website bio! Allow me to give a selection of my first answer ... Gaaaah... It was like that, but not quite so intelligent. Your viddie is so well done... You positively ELEVATE my scrappy text ... And then you had to find my dead mother and ask her how she would say sausage rolls. What a Gilgameshian company. Given mom is not so hard to find. Death has not affected her speech an iota. If she starts telling you what to wear, I'm sorry. (Call an exorcist.) ... I can only hope your crazy noodlings flower into a crazy noodling career, as you obviously have Costco-sized boatloads of talents and skills. I'm in awe. I throw coffee down my own shirt. I eat a holy yam chip. (only dedicated for the ceremony) Thank you for saying I have a sweet disposition. Can you mention that to Mom? Color piles of awesomeT-pot Antony was kind enough to let me post his video on my bio page. It's awesome! This is his deviant art site Post-Industrial Sausage(!) writes: Hi Mizz Tabitha! As a "cough" supposedly mature, responsible adult-type person, I've been pretty out of the comic scene for a few years and have no doubt missed much of your other work. But sure enough, I was also dragged into the whole pony quite reluctantly at first, and so help me I love these stupid ponies. You are in little part to blame for this, since I loved Nightmare Moon and her rich, brilliant voice and laughs right from the start. Imagine my surprise when I came to realize that most of my favorite characters were all voted by the same person. Pretty scary, what child? ... Anyway, between the show itself and the videos and the messages I've run over from various employees involved in the show, I have to say that everyone involved in the show, from writing to animating to voicing, is among the most deservedly loved people in the business right now. Sew many more episodes of awesome. Dear P.I. Sausage. You're too nice, too. No one writes: Hello! I'm a big fan of Tabitha's incredible talent and command of her voice. She breathes life into so many different pieces, and it always brings an artistic touch that always lifts a show when I hear her work. I write because I think Tabitha more than deserves praise for her work. Is there anything fans can do, people we can write, and so on, to support Tabitha? For example, can little people like us do something to promote the idea that she gets an Emmy or something like that? I don't even know what kind of awards are out there, but I know she deserves them! Dear no one. Dear, Dear None. What should be done? It's very kind of you to offer to support my career. But not to fear. I have put toothpicks in several places and some gum (well masticated) in one or two important joints. I also sacrificd a chicken (well, tofurkey,) to the great BINGBANGBOOM, Raccoon God artists (and thieves). So I feel moderately safe. I've sometimes considered asking politely if I could have an Emmy or two, but my agent says that while it may stand in some parts of Canada, it won't hold any water at all with the lively lot of the south. Nevertheless, I am extremely moved by your offer. In return, I'm going to send
